Not all stories are written by the book! In fact, many great writers like to experiment with style and form. Practice thinking outside the box for this next prompt. Write a short story or poem about a still winter scene, using NO VERBS. Remember, verbs tell action or state of being. You may find it tricky at first, but just remember that you don't have to write in complete sentences. Have fun and be creative.

© ThuVienTiengAnh.Com