You've done such a great job on this case it looks like Hollywood is after your story! They want to make a movie out of the investigation you've been holding. It will star you and the eight supers you've been tracking. You're so excited that you decide to create a movie poster.

Have you ever noticed that, along with an image, movie posters usually include the title of the movie, a catchy tagline, and list the leading actors and the director? For your poster you'll even be including a synopsis of what the movie's story should be.
