

Rhyme Scheme: Mapping the Rhyme

Rhymes fall into patterns. In order to find the pattern we use letters.

Find the pattern in this poem. Put the correct letter at the end of each line.

The first two stanzas (poem paragraphs) are mostly done for you. Every time a new rhyme occurs, you add a new letter. See line three below.

Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening by Robert Frost

Whose woods these are I think I know.	 A
His house is in the village, though;	 A
He will not see me stopping here	 B
To watch his woods fill up with snow.	 A

My little horse must think it's queer	 B
To stop without a farmhouse near	 B
Between the woods and frozen lake	 C
The darkest evening of the year.	 B

He gives his harness bells a shake	 C
To ask if there's some mistake.	 C
The only other sound's the sweep	 D
Of easy wind and downy flake.	 C

The woods are lovely, dark, and deep,	 D
But I have promises to keep,	 D
And miles to go before I sleep,	 D
And miles to go before I sleep.	 D
