

Keywords in an Election

Directions: Read the paragraph about elections. Then fill in the crossword with the words from the word box.

An election is a way to pick someone for a public job. The job is to make decisions that affect people. The people who want the job are candidates. Candidates try to get a job in an election. Candidates tell everyone their ideas in interviews. People ask the candidate questions in an interview. Then candidates answer the questions. Candidates want to help voters. Usually, voters pick the candidate they want on Election Day. On the ballot, voters mark which candidate they want. Some people vote through the mail using a mail-in ballot, usually before Election Day.
