

Peru

Perú is a country located in South America. Perú means "land of abundance." The country of Perú is divided into 3 geographical regions: the coast, the highland (mountains) and the jungle. One of Perú's main dishes is ceviche. Ceviche is made of raw fish and other seafood cooked with Perú's highly acidic limes and spicy yellow peppers. It is generally served with a slice of sweet potato and cancha, or toasted corn kernels. One of the main indigenous groups of Perú is the Inca. The Inca built many cities, temples and monuments with highly skilled stonemasonry. One of the seven wonders of the world is "Machu Picchu" found in Cuzco, the capital of the Incan empire. The national animal of Perú is the vicuña. Vicuñas are related to llamas and camels.

Where is Perú located?

South America

What are Perú's 3 main geographical areas?

the coast, the highland, and the jungle

How is ceviche made?

using raw fish, limes, and spicy yellow peppers

What did the Inca build?

The Inca built cities, temples and monuments.

What is the capital of the Incan Empire?

Cuzco

Traditional Dress

Flag of Peru