

Name: _____

Date: _____

Point of View Practice: Two Misbehaved Moths

Pronouns	Point of View	Who is the narrator?
I, me, we, us, our, my, myself, ourselves	first person	The narrator is a character in the story.
He, she, it, him, her, himself, herself, they, their, them, themselves	third person	The narrator is not a character in the story.

Directions: Read the paragraphs. Highlight the pronouns and identify the point of view narration.

Daylight came. The moths were sleeping in the dark tunnel with soft, hanging blankets. It seemed like they were underground because it was so dark. All of a sudden, a giant hand hovered above them and grabbed one of the blankets. In an instant, the moths were tilted and they tried to climb up the blanket. The moths were wide awake and anxious when they were tossed off the blanket. They flew through an opening in the tunnel to escape.

The scout led the way to find a new place to explore. His head was spinning. A noticeable bright light and a crackling sound got his attention. He saw a cylinder with a brown lake inside. He flew back and forth before diving in. The moth paddled and bobbed up and down in the lake before a loud noise and spinning started.

Directions: Complete the sections of the concept web graphic organizer to describe a first person narrative based on the paragraph.

