

Whose Is It?

Rewrite the highlighted words as possessive nouns. Be careful, some of the other words might get switched around!

A possessive noun is used to show who or what owns something. The possessive noun always comes before what it owns or has. A noun is made possessive by adding an apostrophe.

For example:

The petals of the flower can also be written as the flower's petals.

The necklace belonging to Mom is made from pearls.

Mom's necklace is made from pearls.

---

Peter borrowed the tent of Julian to go camping.

Peter borrowed Julian's tent to go camping.

---

Yesterday, I went to see a movie with the sister of Will.

Yesterday, I went to see a movie with Will's sister.

---

All of the pages of the book are old and yellow.

All the book's pages are old and yellow.

---

I promised Dad I would mow the lawn of my neighbor.

I promised Dad I would mow the neighbor's lawn.

---

The science experiments of the teacher are always fun!

The teacher's science experiments are always fun!

---

The neck of a giraffe helps it reach the leaves in the tree.

The giraffe's neck helps it reach the leaves in the tree.

---

