Re-imagining Dialogue with Guest Characters

Name: _____ Date: _____

Have you ever wondered what a conversation might be like between characters across texts?

Re-imagine story dialogue with a character from another text.

Text:

Eleven

Author:

Sandra Cisneros

Original Character:

Rachel

Guest Character:

Scary Gary

From:

The Follower, by Jack Gantos

(text title)

What's Happening in the Story?

(Describe the scene)

A teacher is trying to find out the owner of an abandoned sweater and insists it belongs to Rachel

Original Dialogue:

(Cited from text)

"That's not, I don't, you're not...Not mine," I finally say in a little voice that was maybe me when I was four.

"Of course it's yours," Mrs. Price says.

"I remember you wearing it once."

Because she's older and the teacher, she's right and I'm not.

Re-imagined Dialogue:

(newly re-imagined with guest character)

"What?! You kidding me?!" I finally say in a voice all my own.

"Of course it's yours," Mrs. Price says.

"I remember you wearing it once."

Because she's older and the teacher, she's right and I'm not.

Why did you choose this guest character and dialogue?

I chose the the character of Scary Gary because he stands up for himself, even though he's kind of a bully.
