

Advertise the USA

During the immigration boom of the late 1800s and early 1900s, families from other countries came to the U.S. to find a better life. If you were to create a poster advertising the United States to these families, what would you put on it? Think about what the United States had to offer to immigrants at that time and draw them in the space below.

