

Ask your child to read a short passage, then write an alternate ending of his own. This activity will help readers retell stories and add new ideas of their own.