

California Tiger Salamander

Habitat: open country and woods in agricultural lands of California

Size: 7-10 inches long, 50 grams

Lifespan: 10-12 years

Eats: insects, earthworms

California tiger salamanders are amphibians and need to stay moist.

Their defense consists of camouflage and a toxic, bad smelling substance from their skin.

They breathe partly through their skin, so pesticides are a big threat to them.

