Panchatantra Stories

Panchatantra is an ancient Indian collection of animal fables in verse and prose written by a great Hindu scholar, Pandit Vishnu Sharma. The Panchatantra was composed in Sanskrit language in ancient times. This book of five volumes has traveled and been translated all over the world, primarily because of the witty moral values of the short stories and elegant representation of framed stories. Most of the stories are based on human behaviors, portrayed by animal characters. For generations, they have been one of the most popular and favored stories across India and many other parts of the world.
