

Endangered species are plants or animals that are in danger of becoming extinct.

Florida panthers used to live throughout the southeastern United States. Now, they are found only in the state of Florida. Though they can weigh 130 pounds, Florida Panthers mew, hiss and even purr, just like a housecat!