

Long ago when England was young, the good king passed away. One snowy day, a magical sword appeared, stuck inside of a stone block. On the blade was written these magical words:

“Whoever is able to pull the sword from the stone will be the new king”. Many tried, but all failed. One day, an honest and kind boy named Arthur gave it a try, and all were shocked when he pulled the sword from the stone with ease. On that day he was named King Arthur, and in time he would become a true hero and a great king!

