Fiona's Bad Day

Complete the story by writing in the empty boxes below.

Fiona was having a bad day. First, she couldn't find two matching socks. She spent so long looking for the missing half of the pair that she didn't have time to eat breakfast before she left for school.

By lunch time, Fiona's stomach was growling. She hurried to the cafeteria and sat down next to her good friend Frances.

When Fiona opened her lunch box, however, she noticed something unusual.

Instead of food, the compartments of her lunch box included glitter, colored pencils, and an eraser. Fiona frowned and put her head in her hands

"What's wrong?" asked Frances.

"This lunch box is filled with my little sister's art supplies instead of my lunch!" Fiona wailed. "Nothing is going right today!"

"You need cheering up," said Frances.

"Nothing can cheer me up!" Fiona insisted.

Fiona's sides began to hurt from laughing.

"I have to admit," she said to Frances, "that did cheer me up. Thank you!"

"I have something that I think will make you even happier," said Frances.

She took an apple from her lunch box and handed it to Fiona.

"You can have half of the rest of my lunch, too."
