

Drawing Light

We see all forms and objects in color. The way we can tell their shape and surface is by the different tones and shadows. These come from light bouncing off each type of surface at different angles and reflecting different colors.

Paint the box using the light source to know which sides will be darkest or lightest.

Draw and paint your own object using the light source to color it.

