

Endangered species are plants or animals that are in danger of becoming extinct.

The wood stork is an endangered bird found mostly in the Southeastern United States and in Central and South America.