

Correct the Homophones

Homophones are words that sound the same, but have different meanings.
Correct the sentences below by replacing the italicized word with the right homophone. See the example.

Mr. Aiden bought two pounds of meet from the butcher.

Mr. Aiden bought two pounds of meat from the butcher.

Our teacher taught us how to tie a not for our tent.

I finished my homework in an our.

We got lost on our weigh to Grandma's house.

I read sum good books over summer break.
