

Endangered Species

Iranian Jerboa

Allactaga firouzi

The jerboa is a very small rodent that resembles a mouse. It has large feet, which allow it to bounce around like kangaroo. This species has a small population, so very little is known about them. Only a few were found living on a mountain steppe in southern Iran in 2005.

