

Korea

Female Traditional Clothing

Hanbok South Korea or
Chosŏn-ot North Korea

is the traditional clothing in Korea, which consists of a top and a bottom.

For women, a hanbok is composed of a jacket and a skirt. The skirt is called chima. The chima is a full wraparound skirt that is very comfortable. It comes up as high as the armpits. The hanbok also uses ties that are made into knots instead of buttons.

Question:

Describe a chima.

Answer: It is a comfortable full wraparound skirt.

Korea

Male Traditional Clothing

Hanbok South Korea or
Chosŏn-ot North Korea

is the traditional clothing in Korea, which consists of a top and a bottom.

For men, a hanbok is composed of a basic upper garment and loose-fitting pants. The upper garment is called jeogori and the pants are called baji. The hat, or gat, is the headgear commonly worn outside of the house.

Question:

When do Korean men wear gat?

Answer: Whenever they go out of the house