

Mikki and the Jacket

Complete the story by writing in the empty boxes below.

Mikki loves her cousin Marti. Marti is smart, funny and a great dresser. Mikki feels lucky that Marti is only one year older, so they go to the same school and even get to eat lunch together.

Marti lends Mikki her favorite coat, and Mikki is delighted. But when Mikki arrives at school, Marti begins joking with her friends. "Look at my little cousin," Marti scoffs. "She wants to be like me."

A large empty rectangular box with a blue border, intended for the student to write the next part of the story.A large empty rectangular box with a blue border, intended for the student to write the next part of the story.A large empty rectangular box with a blue border, intended for the student to write the next part of the story.

Marti apologizes to Mikki. "My friends can be pretty mean sometimes. I guess I felt I had to tease you so I would fit in. I'm sorry!"
"Thanks, Marti. I forgive you," Mikki says, and they walk home from school together.