Shani Shingnapur, Village with no doors

Shani Shingnapur is one of the most amazing villages in the Indian State of Maharashtra. All houses in the village don't have doors, including shops. They have only door frames. Despite this, no theft has been reported in the village until 2010. Even now, most of the villagers don't keep any of their valuables under lock and key. There is a popular temple of Shani, the Hindu God. They believe that the god here is very powerful and punishes anyone attempting theft.
