

Other Ways to Say It: Common Adjectives #1

When you use strong adjectives, your writing becomes more descriptive and impactful. Strong adjectives are specific and vivid, and they can evoke emotion from your reader. Look at the bolded adjective in this example.

⊘ The old city overlooked the cliffs.

The adjective leaves the reader to interpret what the scene actually looks like. To create a more expressive, specific sentence for your reader, consider replacing the adjective with something else. Look at these alternatives.

- ✓ The ancient city overlooked the cliffs.
- ✓ The ruined city overlooked the cliffs.
- ✓ The decrepit city overlooked the cliffs.
- ✓ The archaic city overlooked the cliffs.
- ✓ The time-worn city overlooked the cliffs.

These adjectives better describe the city and help readers picture the scene more vividly.

Directions: Look at the adjectives below. Then, write down at least five more descriptive ways to say them. Use reference materials, such as a dictionary or a thesaurus, to help you.
