

Past Tense Quicksand Challenge

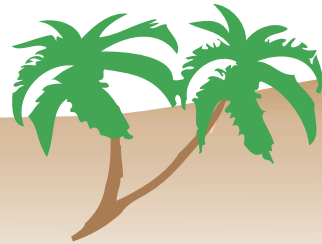

To leave this mysterious island, you must walk across the beach and find the boat, but this beach has areas of quicksand! You must follow the path of past tense verbs to avoid the quicksand.

Draw a path from one past tense verb to the next. You can go vertically, horizontally, or diagonally.

Be careful! Many past tense verbs are spelled just like present tense with “ed” on the end, but some have special spellings. The past tense of “walk” is “walked”, but the past tense of “catch” is NOT “catched”. It’s “caught”.

Watch Out:
Quicksand!

start

declared	buy	exhaust	gets observed	keep	blow	comes taked	acted	regrot	start
burn	burst	knew	attacks
see	swam	unite	fly
heard	glanced	bringed	does
go	kick	talked	want
bite	brung	lets	kept
reward	drank	became	brite
saw	maked	gived	walkt
slipt	made	heard	say
own	give	being	blew
doed	jump	took	seem
folt	went	laught	get

Is quicksand real?

Yes! Quicksand can be found near beaches, ponds, and marshes. It is usually a combination of sand, clay, and salt water. Unlike in books and movies, however, a person could not sink all the way into quicksand. A person would only sink about waist-deep.