

TRANSMISSION FROM HQ: Every poker player has a "tell" - a change in behavior that tells others they are trying to keep a secret about their hand. Poker players often try to learn others' tells so they can determine what their next move might be.

Take a good look at the others around you. Who might be bluffing? Explain what each player's behavior could mean on the lines below.

