

The newspaper just hired a new writer, and he is having a hard time being descriptive. His sentences are just too short!

Directions: Show him how to be a better writer by adding on prepositional phrases to his sentences.

Remember: A preposition is a direction word like: on, over, under, around, above, below, etc.

Example: I went to the store. → I went to the store in my brand new car.

1. The bird flew.

2. The hawks chased him.

3. The bird hid.

4. The little bird decided to find a new home.

5. He found the perfect spot.
