Learning to Sew

One day Grandma decided to teach Gerry how to sew a rag doll. Grandma took down her sewing basket and removed thread, needle, scissors, and a thimble.

This is how you thread a needle, Grandma said. Be careful not to poke yourself.

Gerry carefully cut out the fabric for the doll's body, arms, and legs. Then she looked at the different colors of yarn to be used for hair. Can she have brown hair? she asked Grandma.

Of course she can, Grandma said, smiling. Just like you.

When the doll was finished, Gerry gave her a hug. I will keep you forever, she said.
