Name: _____   Date: _____

Puns with Homophones #2

A pun is a form of wordplay that uses multiple meanings of a word or phrase for a humorous effect. Some puns use homophones to give a statement double meaning.

Remember, homophones are words that sound the same but have different meanings and different spellings, like 'there' and 'their'.

Directions: Circle the homophone in each pun. Then, on the line, write the corresponding homophone that gives the pun its double meaning.

Example: This bread recipe is a family secret. I can only share it on a (knead) to know basis. need

1. What did the burger say to the bacon? So, we meat again.   _____

2. The police were called to the local preschool where Jimmy was resisting a rest.   _____

3. Kim wanted to have her party in outer space, but she wasn't sure how to planet.   _____

4. Reading while sunbathing makes you well red.   _____

5. Danny the dragon slept all day so he would be ready to face the knight.   _____

6. Why was the chicken given a penalty during his basketball game?
    It was a technical fowl.   _____

7. Would a cardboard belt be a waist of paper?   _____

8. I tried to catch some fog, but I mist.   _____

9. It was an emotional wedding. Even the cake was in tiers.   _____

10. Why was the tomato in a hurry? He was trying to ketchup with his friends.   _____

    Try it! Write your own pun using a homophone for beat.

    _____

    _____