

Australia, the Land Down Under

Rainbow Lorikeet

Rainbow lorikeets make great pets because of their good-natured temperament. The rainbow lorikeet gets its name from its green, blue, purple, red, orange and yellow feathers. They grow to 12 inches long, and fly in flocks of hundreds. Their screeching is extremely noisy. There is now a penalty for letting a pet rainbow lorikeet go free because they can damage up to 90% of fruit crops when they choose to feed.