

Reader's Theater: Spring Break

Cast of Characters

Narrator

Mom

Amari

On a Monday afternoon, Amari and his mom went to the park. Spring Break had begun and there was no school all week.

Mom: Are you excited for Spring Break?

Amari: I sure am! This is my favorite week.

Mom: Why is it your favorite week?

Amari: I love this week because there is no school. Plus, I get to spend time doing fun things with you!

Mom: Well, you are sweet! I'm glad we get to do fun things too.

Amari: What else are we going to do this week, Mom?

Narrator: Amari's mom took out her phone to look at the calendar. She sat on a swing, while Amari ran up the stairs on the playground.

Mom: Amari! Come back here please! I'll show you the calendar.

Amari: Oops. Sorry!

Mom: Tomorrow we have to go to the dentist.

Narrator: Amari put his hand on his head and frowned.

Amari: Really? That's not fun!

Mom: I know, buddy. But you have to get your teeth checked. We have fun plans on Wednesday, though! I invited your aunt and uncle to go eat lunch with us. Does that sound good?

Amari: That sounds good to me!

My Fluency Checklist for Expression

Expression

- ☆ • I didn't sound like a robot.
- ☆ • I read smoothly.
- ☆ • I read with feeling.
- ☆ • I paid attention to the end punctuation in each sentence.

