BEST FRIENDS FOREVER

Cindy and Miranda were always the best of friends. They grew up three houses away from each other in the small town of Fernville. The girls spent almost everyday together, playing games and watching movies.

But one day, Miranda's father came home with bad news for Cindy and Miranda. He just got a new job in another county, and Miranda and her family had to move right away. They girls were so sad. They thought they'd never see each other again.

Miranda's father assured Cindy and Miranda they could call each other every night, and Cindy could visit Miranda anytime she wanted. Although they wouldn't be neighbors, they would always be best friends forever.
