

Screw

A screw is a cylinder with threads spiraling down it. A screw turns a twisting motion into straight motion. When a screw is turned into wood the wood is moved up or down in a straight line along the screw and is stopped by the head.

A corkscrew is one example of a screw. Can you think of any others?

