

Sizing Up Atoms

An atom is so small that about one million can fit along the width of your hair.

If an electron weighed the same as a dime, a proton would weigh the same as a gallon of milk!

If an atom was magnified to the size of a flea, the orbit of its electrons would be a football field away.

electron

