

All the visitors who came to the palace were enchanted by the huge gardens. But most enchanting of all was a beautiful melody that could be heard throughout the forests. "Oh, how beautiful is the nightingale's song!" the visitors would say. The sweet nightingale sang for all who passed through the gardens. Soon there were many people talking about the wonderful nightingale who lived in the palace gardens.