

Australia, the Land Down Under

Orange-thighed
Tree Frog

The orange-thighed frog is a tree frog native to a small area of tropical northern Queensland, Australia. They have a lime green back with an orange to yellow underside. The fingers on their forelimbs are three-quarters webbed and the toes on their hind limbs are fully webbed. They spend most of their time in the canopy, only descending to breed.