

WHITE HOUSE • Dinner •

The annual White House dinner this weekend, and you're in charge of approving the final menu! Though you'd to serve only your favorite foods, being president often involves trying to make everyone else happy as well.

Take a look at the notes Hayley has sent you about tonight's dinner guests.

Senator Bobbin is allergic to chocolate.

Tasha Sparks, a movie star, will not eat pasta.

The ambassador from Mexico wants to eat something that reminds her of home.

Comedian Tom Stone will be giving a speech, and he doesn't like to eat food that is green.

The governor of Idaho is proud of his state's favorite food—potatoes!

Using one food from each column below, put together a menu that will make everyone happy!
